SEASON'S DEBS TO AID BENEFIT FASHION SHOW

Mrs. Gary and Mrs. Mitchell
Direct St. Luke's
Hospital Event.

BY JESSIE OZIAS DONAHUE.

All of the debutantes of the season, one hears, are to be invited to assist Mrs. John W. Gary, Mrs. William H. Mitchell II and the general committee of St. Luke's hospital's fourth annual fashion show on Tuesday, Oct. 21, in the grand ballroom of the Stevens hotel.

Ned Wayburn will supervise the fashion show, and a long promenade is to be built the length of the ballroom for the "debs" who model for the affair.

Boxes will be built on either side and tea will be served at small tables. More than 100 society girls and women will participate.

Mrs. William H. Mitchell, who is publicity chairman this year for St. Luke's Fashion show, announces that there will be a luncheon held at the home of Mrs. John W. Gary, 303 Sheridan road, Glencoe, next Tuesday. Those present will be members of the woman's board of St. Luke's hospital, including the chairman of the various committees of the fashion show. Plans will be perfected for this benefit, which is to be held at the Stevens in Oct. 21.

Mrs. John Borden will give a luncheon on Tuesday at the Casino for the executive officers of the Chicago com-

Prepare Plans for Fashion Show

THE FIRST GUN in the campaign to make the St. Luke's annual Fashion Show its usual success will be fired tomorrow, when Mrs. John W. Gary has the chairmen of the various committees out to her Glencoe home to a lunch. A great many of the preliminary plans were made in the Spring, and all through the Summer there has been a lot of box and ticket selling, but the concentrated work will get under way after tomorrow, now that all the women interested are back from Summer outings. The show will take place on the 18th of October in the Stevens Hotel ballroom. Mrs. William H. Mitchell will give a lunch next week for her publicity committee.

Style Display for St. Luke's Will Be Novel

BY THALIA

Members of the women's board of St. Luke's hospital reported progress yesterday on the plans for the annual benefit fashion show to be given on the afternoon and evening of Oct. 31 at the Stevens hotel. They met at a publicity luncheon held yesterday at the Casino.

Mrs. John W. Gary, president of the board, told of the clever new stage setting devised to show off the models to better advantage. The mannequins are to descend a black and gold staircase from the balcony to a runway elevated above the heads of the audience.

Inasmuch as an invitation to appear

Beauties Picked to Aid Charity Show.

IT SEEMS that I was mistaken: Not all the prettiest debutantes and handsome matrons are to be models at the St. Luke's Fashion Show, just as many of the good-looking ones were picked to sell flowers, cigarets and "shares" especially for the evening show—for as Mrs. "Billy" Mitchell gaily explained yesterday at her lunch party at the Casino: "You can't expect the men to give a homely girl as much for a package of cigarets or a button-iere as they'll give to a charmer." Which is just as it should be and every one is satisfied.

And if ever there was a year when the Women's Board needed to get all the money it can from its Fashion Show it's this year, with the added demands on the hospital's social service department. Certainly, the fashions—so different from last year's, will be displayed to better advantage, what with the mannequins tripping down the long stairway from the balcony instead of posing on an elevated stage, Mrs. John Gary is getting a radio announcer to "announce" each model and the amplifiers in the Stevens Hotel ballroom will carry the good word to every single guest at the show.

BOOST SHOW FOR HOSPITAL

Times

and a good time.

Good Work for Fashion Show

Mrs. D. Mark Cummings, stunning as always, was just leaving the Casino club as I stepped in.

"Wonderful all the good work that's being done for St. Luke's fashion show," she said. "And you know I'm all for St. Luke's. But—don't, I beg of you, forget about the Children's Memorial hospital."

Mrs. Cummings was all in black. With her was Mrs. Charles Garfield King, equally fascinating in a black ensemble. Mrs. George A. McKinlock wore a lot of very fine baby lamb in the sleeves and yoke of her black coat. But Mrs. Francis Jewett Johnson, just back from Europe, was as sunny and sweet as a russet pear in her soft brown suit and with her very yellow hair just peeping out from beneath the brim of her soft brown felt hat.

Mrs. John W. Gary was another matron very stylish, indeed, in a brown ensemble. She was the speaker at the luncheon that Mrs. William H. Mitchell gave to a fashion show committee.

gowns. We hope for a record attendance. We know we never had lovelier mannequins," said Mrs. Gary.

Everybody got right down to business. Everybody promised a lot. I can assure you that none of those promises will be broken.

If you haven't been to a luncheon of course, the principal things you want to know is what they had to eat and what they wore. The Casino is famous for its food. But, of course, I couldn't be so rude as to mention everything. Perhaps I'll be excused for remarking that among other tidbits was breast of chicken with rice and chutney and that the party got away grandly with pre-war grapejuice—really creme-de-la-creme of it.

It wouldn't be nice to call a group of luncheon ladies a coterie of magpies, but honestly the black and white effect brought that to mind. Mrs.

Clifford Rodman, Mrs. Phelps Kelley, Mrs. John J. Mitchell and Mrs. Henry Faurot all wore black dresses with white collars.

They might have been French convent girls in Sunday uniforms so demure were they. Miss Anita Blair, who had been struggling with a sick waitress all morning, wore a green crepe blouse. Mrs. Kersey Reed was in mourning black, Mrs. Hathaway Watson in an all black ensemble, Mrs. Charles F. Glore was piquante in a dull blue ensemble, Mrs. A. Watson Armour wore very dark green with a tiny crocheted hat—much like a priest's skull cap.

PHILIP NESBIT DESIGNS POSTER FOR ST. LUKE'S

Fashion Show to Be Held in Grand Ballroom of Stevens Hotel.

BY JESSIE OZIAS DONAHUE.

One wonders just what the St. Luke's fashion show committee would have done without Philip Nesbit. He has designed such an attractive poster for the revue to be held in the Grand ballroom of the Stevens hotel on Tuesday afternoon and evening, Oct. 21. Miss Anita Blair, chairman of the poster committee, tells me that Mr. Nesbit is leaving soon for New York, where he is under contract to do sketches for that smart little magazine the New Yorker. But first he will go to his home in Boston for a visit and later will be the guest of Mrs. Tracy Dows in Washington, D. C.

Mrs. Dows was the guest of Lucretia Bori at Ravinia this summer.

Mr. Nesbit recently did the tropical murals in the Tahiti room of the Twentieth Century Club of Pittsburgh.

Apropos the fashion revue, one hears the box list will easily rival that of opening night at the opera. Among the boxholders are Miss Anita Blair, Miss Louise Herrick, Miss Mary L. Newberry, Robert F. Carr, Joseph T. Ryerson, Walter Byron Smith, Louis F. Swift, David Evans, Harold F. McCormick and the Mesdames:

Society Street Gowns Reflect the Fashions

Black as well as black and white street clothes are perennial favorites with Chicago's smartly garbed women, and this season they seem to be even more popular than usual.

Mrs. William H. Mitchell, who commutes from Lake Forest to town almost every day for her numerous charitable activities, wears a chic black wool dress, tailored and with a variety of the fashionable peplum, black bone buttons down the front of the bodice, a high belted waistline, and a collar of white caracul, narrow on one side and with a point on the other. Mrs. T. Clifford Rodman and her sister, Mrs. Russell Kelley, wear black ensembles with interesting onyx and crystal composition costume jewelry. Mrs. Rodman's frock is of satin crepe, trimmed with white piqué, and has an uneven peplum. Her beret, of woven fabric, is ornamented with a pearl pin.

The cuffs and collar of Mrs. Kelley's dress are of plaited organdy and her hat is of black felt. Mrs. Charles Glore's street wardrobe includes a suit of a rather bright blue broadcloth, with a wide collar of blue fox, and a matching felt hat, double brimmed and trimmed with an agraffe of varicolored stones. Mrs. A. Watson Armour has a wool crepe street dress of dark hunter's green, trimmed with a collar and cuffs of Persian lamb, with which she wears a close fitting black knit hat with a thrown back veil.

"Serious Season" Filled with Work for Reform, Charity

By Mlle. X.

OCTOBER ought to be known in Chicago's social annals as the "Serious Season." The pleasant whirl of summer activities is over on or about the first of the month. The real Season, with its capital S and "let us be gay" attitude, has not yet begun. And the weeks in between are filled with all sorts of engrossing and earnest undertakings.

There's scarcely a member of our feminine fashionable contingent who isn't devoting her energies to at least one worthy cause. Those who live in the country the year round are commuting with businesslike ferocity and regularity, foregoing any mid-week festivities that they may appear bright and smiling and ready for work at their various posts each morning. Those who have opened their town houses are using their drawing rooms for philanthropic entertainings. Bridge tables and backgammon boards have been whisked out of sight in the fervor of the annual duty-before-pleasure epidemic.

Mrs. William H. Mitchell and Mrs. Leslie Wheeler are two of the gay, good looking and socially conspicuous young women who board the 8 o'clock train in Lake Forest every week day morning, returning to the bosoms of their families only after a full day's work has been done, on the five-ten when they're lucky enough to catch it. They are co-chairmen of the Illinois division of the Women's Organization for National Prohibition Reform, and it takes something much more tempting than the mere pursuit of pleasure to pry them from their desks from Monday to Friday.

* *

Attend National Meeting.

With Mrs. Austin Niblack, chairman of the investigation committee of the same organization, Mrs. Mitchell went east a fortnight ago for the meeting of the national executive committee in New York, and she's returned to this part of the world fired with enthusiasm concerning the progress made in the last few months.

Busy as she is with the reform movement and her duties as one of the active and valuable members of the women's board of St. Luke's hospital, now preparing for the annual fashion show to be held a week from Tuesday at the Stevens, Mrs. Mitchell manages to keep her week-ends free for her favorite sport at this time of year, hunting. On her way back from New York she stopped off in Philadelphia for the Saturday morning ride to hounds, finishing just in time to catch the train for Chicago, from which she disembarked Sunday morning clad in her smart riding togs, and hurried out for the Onwentsia hunt at eleven.

Mrs. Mitchell tells me that the organization in which she's so interested has more than 200,000 members and that the education campaign it is launching is going like the proverbial house afire. In Cook county the women are organizing by wards, and throughout the rest of the state by counties. Mrs. Stanley Field, chairman for Lake county, is one of the many ardent souls giving her services to the movement, and spends her days driving about the countryside explaining the purpose of the organization to the women in the different communities, and doing her best to enlist their support. I'm told that she's already secured 251 of the 309 women voters in her own town, Lake Bluff.

The W. O. N. P. R. is planning a number of meetings this month. Tomorrow night at the Drake, Charles Hamill will address the Daughters of Sweden, telling them the ideas and ideals of the organization. On the 23d the Woman's City club is to give a dinner to discuss the prohibition problem, with a debate between Miss Jane Addams for prohibition, and Mrs. Marian Booth Kelley of New York, representing the reform group. The next night there is to be a massmeeting at the Civic theater, with Mrs. Kelley and Ralph Shaw among the principal speakers.

Mrs. Joseph Cudahy will preside at the last mentioned meeting and that same day will give a luncheon at the Casino for Mrs. Kelley and the members of the executive committee, among whom are Mrs. Kent Clow, Mrs. D. Mark Cummings, Mrs. Kellogg Fairbank, Mrs. Carter Harrison, Mrs. Alice Cudahy McCormick, Mrs. Clair E. More, Mrs. Clifford Rodman, and Mrs. Wirt Morton.

Shows Talent at 3 1/2.

ANY ANXIETY THE SERVICE Club or St. Luke's women's board, or whatever fashionable charities may occupy the center of the social stage about the year 1945, might have concerning debutante talent, would have been dispelled yesterday in Mrs. Albert F. Madlener's apartment on Walton place when Miss Nancy Madlener, aged 3 1/2, elected to assist her mother entertain at tea.

ARRIVING with her nurse in a whirl of excitement from a St. Luke's Fashion Show rehearsal, Nancy greeted her mother's guests with enchanting primness and skipped into her nursery and out again with a bevy of French dolls bearing the surprising names of Billy, Bobby and Tommy, and an armload of woolly dogs and spotted giraffes tagged with names entirely of the young lady's creation and distributed them "without fear or favor" among the guests.

NANCY IS TO be permitted to model for St. Luke's during the afternoon show next Tuesday, wearing a cunning little dress from the Women's Exchange, and she inadvertently has disrupted at least one "Snappy Service" rehearsal just by dropping in to see the performance and looking irresistible.

AT MRS. MADLENER'S "press tea" yesterday advance reports were to the effect that "Snappy Service" at the Civic Opera House on Monday night is to be an artistic and financial success. Mrs. Charles

Taste Sweetest, Says Andrew B. MacCaughey, After Exmoor Round

By Loisette

Funny, isn't it, how a nice red-cheeked apple can still tempt the stabled man beyond his strength?

Where is the man who can pass 'em up?

Few and far between are they. Owners of orchards all along golf courses can tell you! Especially during these benedictine-like autumn days.

My attention was called to the fact last evening when I ran into Andrew B. MacCaughey, fresh from a peppy foursome at Exmoor, and looking for all the world like a gala American flag! His sweater was cerulean blue. His plus-sixes were of cream white flannel with a thread of red and his hosiery very patriotic.

ply tumbling out of the container. Behind this vision came Mrs. MacCaughey in a blue suit almost the exact color of her big eyes.

"Have an apple," remarked the golfer as he shifted his clubs. "They're just the grandest things."

"Yes, do," supplemented Mrs. MacCaughey. "In fact, take several. He can afford to be generous, considering where he got them. And that when I went out on an errand of mercy to see our little grandson who's ill."

Mr. MacCaughey grew red in the face. They were gorgeous apples. "Where did you get 'em?" I asked.

"Where do all the best sweets come from, let alone the best apples?" he whispered. "I stole 'em, of course."

Nor judging from the complaints I hear is this sterling citizen the only orchard robber among men who find youth again on the golf course. Perhaps he's to be excused.

PROGRAM READY FOR ST. LUKE'S FASHION SHOW

Mrs. Edward I. Cudahy Is in Charge of Table
Reservations.

BY JESSIE OZIAS DONAHUE.

Mrs. Edward I. Cudahy of 1501 North State street is in charge of table reservations for St. Luke's fashion show, tea and dinner-dance to be held next Tuesday afternoon and evening in the Grand ballroom of the Stevens hotel. Mrs. Cudahy's telephone is Superior 7318.

Posters announcing the affair, which will benefit the work being done by the woman's board, of which Mrs. John W. Gary is president, are being distributed about the loop today.

The runway will extend from the balcony down the full length of the Grand ballroom, and Hal Totten of The Daily News radio station WMAQ will announce the names of the models and the shop each has been chosen to represent.

Incidentally, the shops are paying $100 for each gown that is modeled, $50 for the modeling of a pair of hose and $50 for modeling each pair of slippers, so a snug sum will result from this feature alone.

The manikins selected have been chosen by the shops as well as the committee, which is in charge of Mrs. Augustus W. Eddy, for their style and beauty. They include Princess Aleka Rostislav and the

Two Fashion Showings at St. Luke's Benefit

The St. Luke's Hospital Fashion show, which is annually given by the Women's board of the hospital and the proceeds of which go towards the work of the board in the hospital, is being held in the Grand ballroom of the Stevens hotel Tuesday, October 21.

The afternoon tea showing will begin at 3 o'clock, and the evening dinner dance showing begins at 7:30. Many debutantes of the season and several young matrons will model and sell cigarets. A modernistic stage and runway have been designed. The models will appear at the top of a flight of stairs which they descend to proceed on to the end of the runway, where they will pose.

Harold O. Totten, famous broadcaster, will broadcast the name of each model as she appears and the shop for which she is modeling.

Tickets may be purchased at the doors or from Mrs. John C. Pitcher, room 1084, 208 South LaSalle street. Her telephone number is Franklin 2851.

St. Luke's Stages Fashion Show Today.

NOTHING LESS than a crush is expected this afternoon at the St. Luke's Fashion Show, and for that reason even those who have the coveted "ringside" boxes are planning to be on hand by 2:30, when the doors of the Stevens ballroom open. There never was a more perfectly organized charity show, so that everything should go like clock-work, but remembering the crowds of other years who arrived all at the same moment—just a few minutes before 3 o'clock, I'm offering the friendly suggestion that to be sure of a seat (especially to those who will buy their tickets at the door) it's better to be on hand before the last minute rush.

The second show in the evening is always a much more formal proceeding, and in addition to the regulation fashion show, which will be put on during dinner, there will be a pair of Argentine dancers—Medrano and Donna—giving a program of classic dances. The list of prominent women who will have boxes at the afternoon show begins with Mrs. Ogden Armour and goes on through a list pages long, ending with the name of Mrs. Walter B. Wolf. So that the indications are that most of the prominent women of the town will be at the show either as models, or as audience, this afternoon and evening.

St. Luke's Annual Style Parade Major Social Event of Week

By Mlle. X.

LIKE a tender and generous mother, October has presented her Chicago children with the most beautiful weather at her command, easing the problems of the unemployed and cheering the hearts of the nouveaux pauvres, so much more in evidence just now than the traditional nouveaux riches. She has persuaded country dwellers to keep their houses open longer than they planned last June, for one last fling on golf course, tennis court and bridle path. She's lured city dwellers into the open for long walks and motor rides, to see the shining mantle of gold and red and brown that she has flung over the landscape.

Of course, by the time this paper reaches your Sunday morning breakfast table she may have changed her tactics and challenged our energies with chill winds and drenching rains. Be that as it may, she is at the moment the most benevolent of parents and she's made this particular corner of the planet an altogether lovely spot. Even the hunters and football fans, who like a "cool and clear" report from the weather man, are not complaining.

Alluring as the country is at this time of year, Tuesday of this week will find practically every one of any social importance spending all or part of the day in Chicago, for that afternoon and evening the women of the St. Luke's hospital board are putting on their famous annual fashion show in the grand ballroom at the Stevens hotel and those of our pretty people not taking part are sure to be grouped at tea or dinner tables during the festivities.

Started Three Years Ago.

It was just three years ago that this clever and hard working group decided to put on a "parade of the mannequins" instead of the yearly ball that had for so long been one of the brilliant events of the winter. So successful did the new venture prove that it's now incorporated in the board's annals as the best way to raise funds for the fine old hospital that's been a Chicago landmark for nearly seven decades.

Mrs. John W. Gary headed the woman's board in 1927, when the first fashion show was given, and she does now, the officers allied with her including Mrs. Walter B. Wolf, Mrs. Kersey Coates Reed, Mrs. William H. Mitchell, Mrs. William E. Casselberry Jr., Mrs. George Northrop and Mrs. Henry Faurot Jr., while Mrs. Augustus Eddy, Miss Anita Blair, Mrs. John J. Mitchell, Mrs. Charles Glore, Mrs. Russell Kelley, and Mrs. Clifford Rodman are only a few of the other members who are putting their shoulders to the wheel to make this the sprightliest affair of the early and serious season.

The mannequins and cigaret girls have been chosen, quite frankly, for their good looks, and will play their parts from three o'clock on through the tea hour and again at dinner time when the beaux of the town put in an appearance.

Mannequins to Display Frocks.

The smartest of frocks, the hand-somest of wraps and the gayest of jewelry will be displayed by a group of lithe and lovely young women, among whom are Mrs. Walter Paepcke, Mrs. William H. Mitchell, Mrs. Lawrence Williams, Mrs. Press Hodgkins, Mrs. Howard Peabody, Miss Florence Noyes, Miss Roberta Harvey, Mrs. Harry B. Clow Jr., Miss Barbara Poole, Mrs. Russell Forgan, Miss Barbara King, Mrs. John R. Winterbotham Jr., Mrs. Sidney Strotz, Mrs. Harold Strotz, Mrs. John Payne Kellogg, Miss Janet Kirk, and Mrs. John Finlay. A section of the balcony railing at the south end of the ballroom has been removed and a black and silver stairway built there, down which the models are to walk to the runway, a great improvement over the steep and awkward approaches of other years.

Mrs. George Northrop has taken on one of the most complicated and important jobs attendant on such a show—the care of the costumes lent for the occasion by smart shops and modistes. They must be carefully unpacked, hung up when not in use, and repacked at the end of the exhibit, lest any disaster befall even the tiniest of lace ruffles. And as dozens of lovely outfits are to be shown, the post of wardrobe mistress is not one to be taken lightly.

To Miss Anita Blair fell the task of getting suitable and attractive posters and program covers. She went immediately to that clever young Chicago artist, Philip Nesbit, for help and, thanks to his generosity and skill, obtained some extremely snappy designs. However, Miss Blair is just now regretting that she can't be in two places at once, for having done her part of the work so well, she won't be here to enjoy the fruits of her labors.

She's been invited to attend the three-day meeting of the American Occupational Therapy association and the American Hospital association starting tomorrow in New Orleans, and not only to be there but to read a paper on "Occupational Therapy in a General Hospital" on Tuesday, just as the fashion show is at its height. On that same day Mrs. Lynn Gratlot, chairman of the Junior league occupational workshop of St. Louis, will talk on "Occupational Therapy and a Sheltered Workshop" before the same august assemblage.

Miss Blair is such a petite and youthful person that it's always surprising to realize what a vast amount of work she crowds into her life. She's served on the St. Luke's board for twelve years and during that time has been chairman of the hospital's occupational therapy department, having been its first worker and director. She has many friends in New Orleans, but she says she's afraid that she'll see little of them, as she feels she must do all she can to get information to bring home.

STYLE SHOW TO BENEFIT HOSPITAL

DEBUTANTES WILL APPEAR IN ROLES OF MANNEQUINS AT CHARITY FASHION DISPLAY FOR ST. LUKE'S

SMART SET SHOWS INTEREST IN EVENT

BY THE DOWAGER.

ASK ANY LADY OF FASHION what the high light of next week's social program is, and she'll answer without a second's pause: "St. Luke's Fashion Show."

Of course, about a third of the smart women of the town are in some way connected with the show, either as the directing geniuses of it or as models; still another third of them have debutante daughters or sisters acting as mannequins and cigaret girls. And the rest will go to the show because of the lure of pretty clothes, irresistible to all feminine hearts.

Over and above all these motives is the more noble one of helping a most worthy and appealing charity. Every one knows—or should know—that the many thousands this annual fashion show brings in is given by the woman's board toward the social service work of the hospital. And in these times of depression there is so much to be done, so many more poor to be helped, that there can be no let-up in the good work of other years.

Certainly there has been no let-up on the part of the women who are responsible for making the show the great financial and social success it has been other years. Ever since last Spring they've been working on it. Fully eight months ago the date was set so that there would be no conflicting with another charity party.

All through the Spring there were meetings, to get the committees well organized before they should get away for their Summer holidays. And since the first of September there has been a vigorous campaign of box and ticket selling, interviewing of advertisers for the program, soliciting modistes who will show their wares, and collecting just the right "personnel" to properly exhibit those wares.

Wise ladies that they are, they've struck upon the only triple-action income from the benefit. They get money for tickets and boxes; the shops pay $100 for every gown shown ($50 for slippers and hosiery), and the program brings in grand returns for advertising. Not to mention the money that is made from the sale, by pretty young vendors, of cigarets, shares and flowers. The only expense is for the tea that is served at the afternoon session and the dinner in the evening.

The net income for this year is expected to be well over $25,000. Which is, as any intelligent being knows, only a drop in the bucket for the vast work of social service that the hospi-

Men Out of Style Show

The only item of society sartoriality that will be missing from Tuesday's fashion show at the Hotel Stevens to benefit St. Luke's hospital will be an exhibit of what gentlemen wear at home and abroad.

There are, to be sure, quite a few local bon vivants who could qualify in this respect. When it was discussed at a recent meeting among those mentioned were Chauncey McCormick, I. Newton Perry, Howard Gillette, Eames MacVeagh, Col. R. R. McCormick, Edwin Hurley, Charles Knickerbocker, Frank G. Logan, Prince Rostislav, James Simpson Jr., Edwin Krenn, "Billy" Fuller, the Pirie boys and Potter Palmer.

While such a representation is something greatly to be desired, who, I ask you, would have the temerity to request these good citizens to take up the manikin's burden?

Verily greater love hath no one for sweet charity than that he give up his skin to play peacock!

Princess Aleka Rostilav Models with Debs at Stevens Hotel Show

By Lorette

Quite "according to St. Luke's," society parades and ponders today in the grand ballroom of the Stevens hotel.

To dulcet music and "coffee-and" is presented the annual fashion show to aid the famous south-side hospital. This is the philanthropic fete that used to be a most elegant charity ball. Even the most elderly and bunioned beau got up and trod with eclat the big grand march. But—so has luxury and age changed many a crusading man and balloting woman—now society sits and rests its ankle bones while a chosen group play manikin.

Princess Aleka
Rostilav

One of the most interesting of the models is the young Russian princess, Aleka Rostilav. Her husband is a second cousin of the Prince of Wales. Mrs. John W. Gary, Mrs. A. Watson Armour, Mrs. Henry Faurot, Mrs. J. J. and Mrs. W. H. Mitchell, Mrs. Walter Wolfe and Mrs. Charles F. Glore are among the women in charge. While the afternoon session is a tea-dansant, the evening is given over to a dinner dance.
